

MUGS MATTERS

HELLO folks!

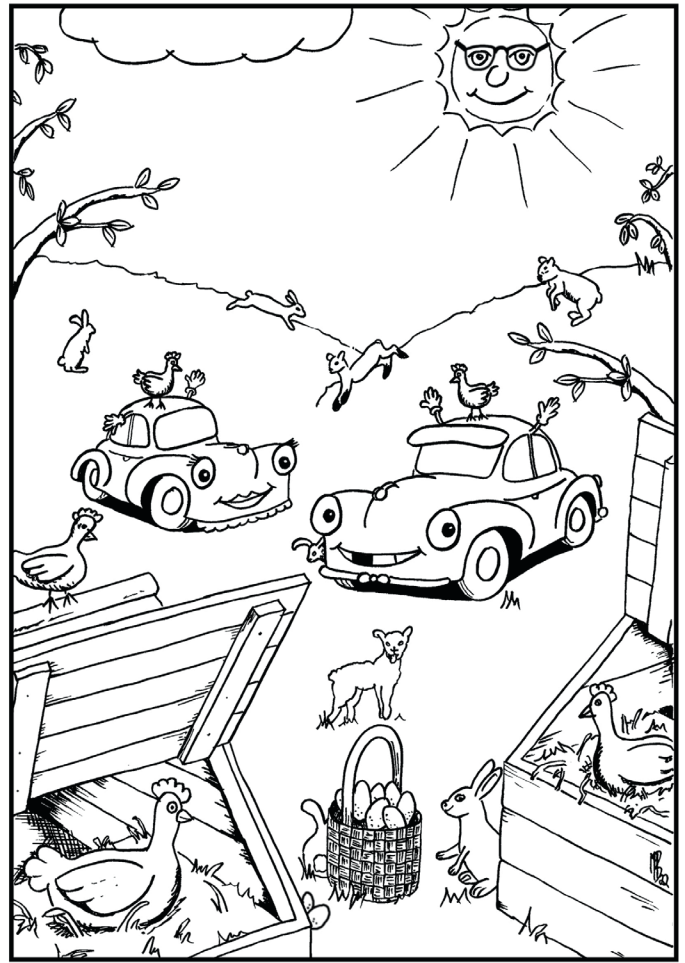

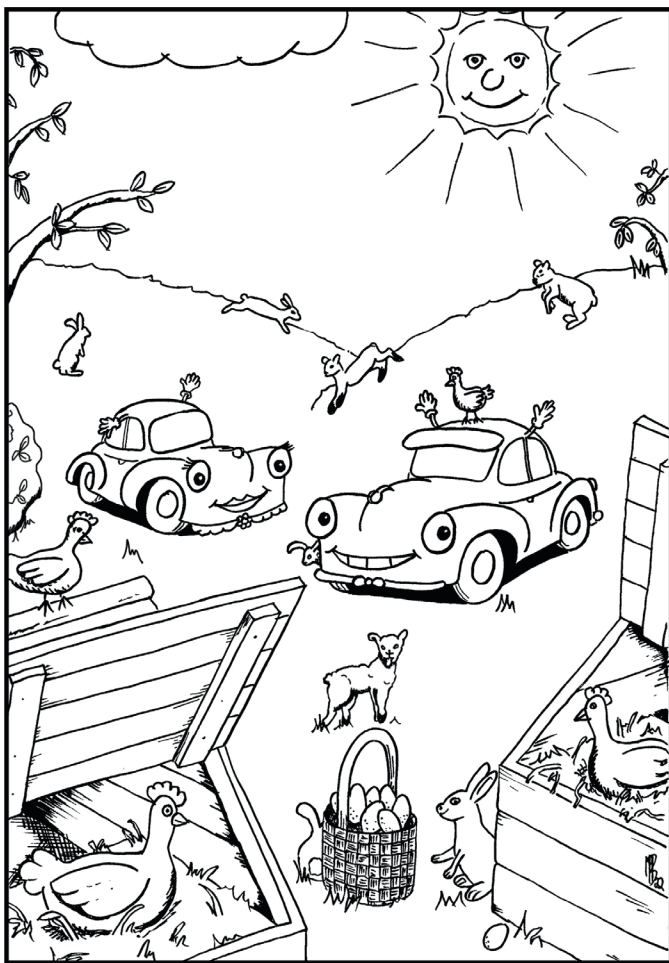

Well what a lovely time of the year Spring is. And Meg and I certainly have a bounce in our bonnets as the weather brightens up and the days get a wee bit longer.

We decided to celebrate with a spin round the countryside and boy what fun did we have. The weather was delightful, the fields full of happy and very bouncy lambs!, equally springy bunnies and some cluckety cluck hens.

A packed picnic prepared by Meg and filled with all the goodies we petrol heads love, meant we had a fabulous day and made some great memories.

We took our pal Michael "Clumsy Pickle" Barnes along to capture our joy on canvas and as you can see from the cartoon below, Michael did such a great job, we decided to use it for today's competition.

It would be good to know what you are all up to, now you can get out and about and our garage walls are looking a bit bare, so could do with some posters/letters to spruce them up. So why not send them in via Rebecca.hay@mmoc.org.uk and you might win a wee prize. MUG

COMPETITION

Ouch my tummy is fit to bursting! Hello folks, I am just on my way back to the garage after enjoying a lovely picnic out and about with Meg.

As you will have read above, we had a lovely time, looking at the lambs, bunnies and hens and also tucking into the majestic picnic prepared by Meg.

Our pal Michael "Clumsy Pickle" Barnes came along for some fun and food and whipped up this fabulous set of cartoons for today's competition.

All you have to do is look at the cartoons with your best concentrating hat on, spot the 10 differences between the two.

And if you are feeling extra special, you could dig out your colouring pens and glitter and give the whole thing, a great big spruce up!

If it is looking fine and dandy, then why not send it in for our garage wall? There may be a wee prize in it for you. Send it today! via Rebecca.hay@mmoc.org.uk

If you get stuck you can check the answers on page 3!
